

Connecting the World

The world's largest social graph

Building the tools & systems to help 1.9 billion people across the world connect, communicate and share requires constant innovation. At Facebook, research permeates everything we do.

The Facebook platform is our lab for research, development, and innovation. Our talented teams of researchers and engineers are constant innovators as they design and build the next generation systems to serve the 1.9 billion people who use our products.

We're hiring!

We're looking for talented industry and academic researchers to join our team!

Visit us at research.fb.com/careers to learn more about a career at Facebook.